Student Council Prexy And Veep Sworn In

The inauguration of Student Council officers was held Thursday, Oct. 11, before 300 or more students. Ceremonies were conducted from the balcony of the Administration Building, which had been gaily decorated with patriotic colors of red, white, and blue. The crowd started gathering about 30 minutes before ceremonies began, attracted by gay music and the preceremony commentary of Master of Ceremonies, Leroy Duff.

The motorcade bearing the inaugural party started from Clement Hall and proceeded to the platform via "the horseshoe", stopping at Goodwill Manor to pick up Dr. Boswell, University Vice-President. Riding in the first car, along with Dr. Boswell, was President-elect Joseph Mack and William Hill, Chairman of the Student Election Commission. In the second car were Arthur Webb, Vice President elect; Dr. Joseph Payne, Dean of Students; and several AFROTC cadet officers. The party disembarked at the steps before the Administration Building and was conducted to the platform by an AFROTC Honor Guard.

Ceremonies began with the swearing in of Vice-President-elect Webb by Chairman Hill. This was followed by the swearing in of President-elect Mack, who began his inaugural address immediately after taking oath.

Mack delivered a splendid address, issuing a firm challenge to the freshman class and to upperclassmen as well. He emphasized the importance of student participation in school activities, and urged each individual to strive to better himself as a student, thereby bettering the university as a whole.

Also brought out in his speech were the improvements that have been made thus far by the new administration; namely, a President's Hour, during which, any student may submit his grievances to the Student President and the amendments drafted to the Constitution, which are awaiting final approval before being put into effect.

Mack also took this occasion to introduce the other members of the Student Council. They are: senior class representatives, James Davis, Robert Johnson, David Alexander, Leroy Duff, and Benjamin Madry;

State Universities and Land-Grant Institutions Principal Source Of Nation's Doctoral Degrees

State universities and land-grant institutions serve as the principal source of the nation's most highly educated manpower, conferring most of the advanced degree in essential fields.

The 95 members of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges and the State Universities Association awarded 54.9 percent of all doctorates in 1959-60. In the more critical fields, they awarded 70.2 percent of all Biological Science doctorates, 57.1 percent in Mathematical subjects, 60.4 percent in Engineering and 53 percent in Education.

According to the Joint Office of Institutional Research, the member schools conferred 5,393 out of the aggregate number of 9,829 doctorates granted during the year. This compares with a 1958-59 percentage of 54.1, or 5,064 out of a 9,360 aggregate.

These schools, in addition, conferred 39.1 percent of all master's degrees—29,107 out of a national total of 74,497—and 31.1 percent of all bachelor's degrees—122,997 out of a 394,889 total—in 1959-60. The "bachelor's" category includes bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, such first professional degrees as M.D., LL.B., B.D. and certain master's level degrees when they constitute the "first professional" degree. The "master's" level includes degrees beyond the bachelor's or first professional, but below the doctorate.

Freshman Class And University Counselors Meet a New Epoch

By PORTER HOLBERT

This is a new epoch for the Tennessee A&I State University family, mainly because fifty years of progress have passed and are now listed as history (not ancient) among the records of time. But now a renaissance of a new epoch invites this family to approach this new age with new ideas, new responsibilities, along with old experiences.

The University Counselors as well as the freshman class and each freshman class for the next 49 years, is definitely an integral part of the genesis of the Centennial which is to come. At the beginning of this new age, the University Counselors encountered an opportunity to put into practical application, the four qualities that each Counselor should possess, namely, leadership, scholarship, personality, and guidance. In order to do this, the Counselors, who were reduced this year in the number, attended a preparatory workshop beginning one week before the arrival of freshmen and new students. During this time, a close relationship of togetherness was established which never before has been felt among the members of this organization. The Counselors were schooled on different arts and activities concerning their new tasks by members of the T. S. U. faculty.

In "fact-finding" sessions, such topics were discussed as how to make the freshmen feel more at ease, how to assure safe arrivals from the bus or train stations to the campus, ways in aiding freshmen and their parents to find their approved off-campus homes, how to promote school spirit, and above all, how to promote active participation of freshmen in the various activities which have been scheduled for them.

The services of University Counselors began actively when the first group of freshmen arrived on the T S U's campus. From then on, the Counselors were T S U "busy-bees" aiding freshmen and administration whenever possible.

Counselors met the new students at the stations upon arriving in the city; Counselors delivered their luggage; Counselors checked freshmen into the university; Counselors advised new students as well as parents; Counselors explained the facts of orientation, Counselors demonstrated the registration procedures; Counselors aided in administering tests; Counselors were the efficient promoters of registration for freshmen as well as upperclassmen; Counselors became "jacks-of-all-trades — efficiently." Counselors were truly dedicated in their efforts.

Ode To Science

*On That clear and peaceful morning
When the wind was quiet and still,
The countdown continued droning
As in many practiced drill,
Minus thirty-two, minus thirty-one . .
While in the rocket, towering high
On which gleamed the morning sun
The astronaut faced toward the sky.*

*In the blockhouse and on the field,
Men rushed at a frenzied pace.
This was the time for knowledge and skill
To pierce the vastness of space;
This was no time to weaken or tire
As tenseness and anxiety soared,
Five, four, three, two, one . . fire!!
And the rocket engine roared.*

*A sound like no man had ever heard
Filled the air and trembled the earth,
And speed undescribed by any words,
A dream had been conceived and given birth
Years of work, hard study and plans
Laid the groundwork for this day,
Men from many different lands
Contributed, each in a way.*

*But while the sound was in our ears,
While we saw the rocket's fire
We should have thought back through the years
To men who aspire to live, and lived to aspire
Who unselfishly gave their lives in toil
As they went their lonely way,
And were not touched by graft or spoil,
This was their achievement, this was their day.*

Political News

Kennedy Follows Tradition

There might be those who would say that President Kennedy has hurt himself politically as well as the Democratic Party in the South, but it is my opinion that he certainly has not. The people across our nation including the South and Mississippi—are realizing that what has been done by the Federal Government was necessary. It was necessary to save the Union from the results of a rebellious situation. The southern states will not secede from the Union as they attempted to do before, because they can't. If Mississippi was a sovereign state as Gov. Barnett has recently referred it, President Kennedy would not have sent in Federal troops to enforce the Supreme Court ruling and to establish law and order. Webster says that a body is sovereign when it is "supreme in power; superior in position to all other". Sovereignty is defined as "Supreme political power or authority". It would be a service to all humanity if someone endeavored to tell the good Governor that this description does not fit his state (state is used here very loosely). If one state can defy our highest judicial tribunal and get away with it, then all can, but as Americans we like our United States "United", so again we say as Lincoln said, that is a state cannot leave the Union on its own authority.

President Kennedy is not alone in the use of troops to enforce the law. Former President Washington in 1794 used troops to put down the whisky rebellion. Rebellion against the authority of the United States were quelled again with troops by Presidents John Adams, Andrew Jackson, Rutherford B. Hayes, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson.

Most recently before Kennedy, President Eisenhower upheld federal authority in 1957 at Little Rock, Arkansas. Presidents, Governors, legislators, law enforcement officers, and community must have the intestinal fortitude necessary to give teeth to decisions of the highest Court of Justice and to preserve individual liberties.

I have only praise for the Administration for taking such positive action in a time of need. That spark of courage now emerging in Mississippi is also to be encouraged. Cowardice and ignorance will soon take the back seat, insight will work for the good of all.

WHAT IT ALL MEANS

By BOOKER T. WASHINGTON ESQ.

The recent fiasco staged in Oxford, Mississippi, by Governor Ross Barnett and his cohorts has many far-reaching implications and important indices of noticeable character. Primarily, this recent defiance of "the law of the land" indicates the failure of a virtually non-existent two-party political system. The Republican party, as is commonly known, just isn't making nor has it made any substantial gains in the political arena of the South since the days of Reconstruction.

By contrast, the Democratic party has been "making political hay while the sun shines," by continually getting their candidates elected to congress election-year after election-year. Thus it is no small wonder that most of the important congressional committees are chaired by Southern senators and representatives, who can almost single-handedly pass on defeat important bills that are backed by the president and his closest subordinates.

The spiraling, spirited, and surging patriotism espoused and vehemently displayed by segregationists has become the subject of study and observation by social psychologists and researchers in an attempt to explain the prejudicial acts of violence they have committed time and again. It has been generally concluded that this devout patriotism is only a subterfuge, shield, or better still, a rationalized defense enabling him to do what he desires with the full sanction of a sacred and revered symbol; "red-blooded Americanism." Not only does he feel justified in what he does wrong, he is actually "egged on" along with others in the belief that they are defending a highly respected American symbol.

There are many potential Oxfords in the southland that have not been "tapped" as yet. Towns such as these differ from and are still suffering from that curious malady known as "regionalism" or "sectionalism." The rowdies in Oxford were no more concerned with how their actions would affect international relations and America diplomatic relations than the communists are with how many glue factories are in full-time operation in Oshkosh, Keokuk, or Anasheim. Some perhaps may have thought of it and quickly reverted back to their localized perspective or outlook, but it remains obvious that these young toughs were completely oblivious of the impetus of their acts and repercussions which were later produced.

If the South is to ever catch up with the other three-fourths of these United States, the acts of violence that were allowed precedence over law and order are most assuredly indicative of the great task of re-educating itself with respect to race relations to the fullest extent in all areas. First and foremost in this seemingly insurmountable task is the uplifting of the quality of its education. Then, and only then, will it be able to contribute to the achievement of national and international objectives in the manner which its potential asserts that it can do.

FASHION LOOKS AHEAD

By ZETTA WINFREE

Girls, get out your needles and thread because the length of skirts is getting longer! This Fall in Paris the skirt length is centered about three-fourths of an inch below the knee. This trend has not reached the States as yet, but it will be here soon. However, the Bermuda skirt and the Scottish skirt will remain short. I regret that the skirt length is getting longer because I like them short, but we'll have to go along with fashions. The length of skirts must be determined by the individual's legs. As you have observed there are some of us who look better than others in short skirts because of the shape of our legs. In adhering to the newest fashions let's consider our legs.

Leotard hose are very smart with skirts and blouses. They may be worn with the in-between or flat heel shoes. They are great for everyday wear especially in cold weather. Tinted sheer hose are still high in fashion. Off-greys or black is good. The off-greys are more basic. Tinted hose can match either your shoes or dress.

It's better to wear mesh hose to school since they last longer. On special occasions, I recommend sheer hose because your legs will look more attractive. If your legs are hairy the hair should be removed with a depilatory. The stocking will look more sheer.

Hose with seams are coming back in style, much to my regret, because I usually ruin my stocking quickly trying to keep my seams straight.

The in-between heel is very smart for day and evening wear. The stacked heel is very smart for day wear.

The Student Speaks

By RUFUS ISOM

The student speaks this month on—"How Do You Like The New Meal Cards?"

Wellan Walker, sophomore, Morristown, N. J. "Actually, I think they are better because when you go to the cafeteria, you don't have to go to the meal rack to get your card."

Ronald Benefee, sophomore, Oklahoma City, Okla.—"I think they are better because you don't have to worry about people using other people's meal cards, and they are convenient to handle."

Elbert Hill, sophomore Oklahoma City, Okla.—"I think the meal cards are better than the ones last year because they are convenient to carry in your wallet. Each student has possession of his card. It prevents confusion on the part of the student and the cafeteria personnel."

W. J. Finnie, sophomore, Memphis—"I think the person who suggested the idea should be praised highly. My goodness, I had so many (pointing at his head) headaches last year."

Two Unidentified girls,—"They are better to us because it is the students' responsibility to keep them, and that they come in one piece helps in many ways."

Oscar F. Inge, sophomore, Mobile, Ala.—"The meal cards serve the students much better. I feel assured when I keep my own meal card."

Our Students Walk In Danger

While crossing 35th Avenue and Centennial yesterday, two A&I students were struck by a red and white sedan and fatally injured. Most people are surprised after reading this statement. This of course is fiction, but the possibility of this happening increases every day. Centennial Boulevard, or "A&I's Public Drag Strip", as it is better known presents nightly performances. There is no price of admission. All that is required is a very minute quantity of patience and a good position for viewing. The speed machines taxying down the runway are all out to set new records in endurance, courage, take-off from a standing position, and speed. Most immature kids call this type of thing fun, but the National Safety Council calls this a menace to public safety.

But all of this is going to come to a stop. When? I don't know. Maybe it will be after those two students are actually run down by the speed monsters. Or our police department just might start cracking down on violators very soon. The future holds the answer.

A & I PRESENTS THE TOWLES SISTERS

By FRANCES ANN CASEY

A & I's campus was filled with interest and enthusiasm the week of Oct. 15-20 as the Towles sisters became walking consultants for all students. Lois, a versatile pianist, and Dorothea, the first Negro model who uses both a Negro and white modeling agency, were present at A & I to give recitals, lectures, consultations, extravaganza and demonstrations on "The Art of Living."

The first of the lectures was Monday with the Towles sisters and Mrs. Ivanetta Davis, presiding. In her opening remarks, Mrs. Davis gave the purpose of the lectures, demonstrations, and all other events of the week.

The events were designed for students with educational potentials to develop their inner personality, grace, and charm. To do this, one must recognize his problems, identify himself, raise his horizon and become concerned about he or she can do best.

With a conversation in French, Dorothea opened the timely lectures. In expressing the importance of grace, she stated that "no matter what field one chooses, one must develop all of himself, for you shall be judged not only by what you know, but by the way you move, walk, and talk."

The objectives of the consultants will help to develop a sweetness of nature, to keep your natural sensitivity, to expand your graciousness which stems from an inner grace, to develop a capacity for creative synthesis, and to find courage, the courage to say, the strength to do.

Throughout the week, lectures were held, students were given demonstrations on the proper way to walk, sit, and stand. The Towles sisters were busy Tuesday through Thursday looking for students with striking personalities, one with little beauty and unpleasing skin complexion for Friday night's presentation of "Cinderella."

On Friday night, the week was climaxed with a fashion show. Fifteen students and Dorothea models some of their original designs.

Eight awards were presented to students; and to climax the evening the Towles sisters were presented an award from the AKA sorority.

Lois Towles Attractively Artful In Piano Recital

Personal Development Week was begun Sunday, October 14, 1962 with a recital given by Miss Lois Towles, a renowned pianist.

The first number featured Miss Towles at the piano accompanied by Mr. J. Sharpe at the organ in a symphonic variation. The following two numbers were given by A&I Choir, directed by Dr. L. L. Lusk, accompanying Miss L. Towles, featuring a solo from a member of the choir.

Among the most enjoyable numbers were, "Lord, Our God Have Mercy" and the "Songs of Conquest", which received a superlative round of applause.

Miss L. Towles again appeared wearing a full-length gown presenting a few of Brahms, Liszt and Khachaturian concerts.

At the close of the recital Miss L. Towles was presented with a dozen of red roses by Mr. J. Sharpe. To the many who attended and witnessed the dynamic performance of this gifted artist, the evening was one of cultural and artistic enjoyment.

Dope 'N' Data

By I. C. YAWL

In order to keep in pace with the general uplifting of the tone of conduct at TSU, I am announcing that we will no longer print news of a slanderous or degrading nature in this column.—Now that I have tricked several people into reading this column with the above statement, let's proceed to get down to the "nuttie-grittie."

During a recent hassle between him and his girl, Ronald Barbee was discovered hiding on his knees in the shrubbery outside of Hankal Hall peeping at the front door. When questioned about his strange actions he alibied that he was "looking for his billfold." At this time, Theodore Spencer, William Jackson, Carl Benson, and Richard Shepard appeared from behind other bushes and said; "yeah, and we are just helping him."

Dr. Peepedyou will spare no expense to bring to the readers of this column the latest news and the best kept secrets on campus. By trickery, bribery, and threats of violence, I have uncovered the following tidbits of data, which I will relate to you. Did you know that:

Isreal Lang plans to run for "Mr. Esquire" this year?

Delores Flood has a crush on Wilt Chamberlin?

Brenda Simmons loves to play cupid for her friends?

Jerry Owens plans to put his car in storage for a month to test his popularity without it?

I intend to remain incognito for health reasons. Well, if you didn't know these things you do now.

Try, if you can, to imagine the extreme hassle that would occur if James Meredith, Ross Barnett, Sonny Liston, Floyd Patterson, Richard Burton, Elizabeth Taylor, Mrs. Burton, Joseph Mack, Robert Johnson, Fannie Mayberry, Joan Speights, Richard Shephard, Russell Brown, Janie Ogilvie, Isetta McClendon, and Nikita Khrushchev were stranded on some remote island for a year. Wouldn't it be simply weird?

Have you noticed that the water on the lobby of Hankal Hall tastes fresher this year?

Since Hankal Halls' famed cat has passed, Freddie Greer, is the only "Cat" on campus.

The guys from Jersey and the gals from Detroit are at it again. It's a pity that only half of them will be with us after this quarter. Warning! Beware of:

The Hawk; The Twilight Lady and her brownie with the Telescopic lense, the second floor of Wilson Hall, The Hawk, The weekend after mid-terms, The Hawk, that dashing trio of young ladies seeking attention in the cafeteria, The Hawk. Goodby subjects!

I hear that the freshman prexy has a big junior and senior girl project on his hands.

Ex-track girl returns to the field and is running hard. Wouldn't you, if you knew you were getting pretty Moore for the prize?

If anyone is in doubt about the fare to Iowa, ask Billy Patterson.

The mysterious problem of Carla Thomas has been solved in her equation, "I'll Bring It On Home To You."

Will David Watson ever overcome the "Trotter?"

The big spenders from S. C., and Detroit, are riding high; they only need food to slide by.

Under whose tree is Robert Jackson longing to be?

THE ARISTOCRATS STEP OUT

On Saturday, October 13, the fabulous one hundred thirty-two piece marching band of Tennessee State University gave another of their famous and terrific performances. The Aristocrat of Bands performed during the half-time of the football game between Fisk University and Philander Smith College of Little Rock, Ark., in W. J. Hale Stadium.

With the overall approval of the crowd, the high stepping professionals marched on the field with a precision that can only be perfected by experts. Consequently, they have been acclaimed as one of the finest marching bands in the nation.

A map of Tennessee, portrayed during the Fisk "Alma Mater", was followed by a pipe-organ formation from which Bach's "Tocatta and Fugue" was instrumentalized. In the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" the band formed several long lines and excited the audience by their intricate maneuvers. This was followed by the "St. Louis Blues" performed from the image of a blues singer, and "Rhapsody In Blue", by Gershwin, was played from the formation of an old phonograph. From the formation of a modern stereo speaker, the band played the hit tune, "Walk On The Wild Side", as the majorettes entertained with a unique and stylish dance.

The band marched back to the stands in a "slow death" tempo. The excellence of the band can only be attributed to the combined efforts of Bandmaster, Frank T. Greer, his assistants, Edward L. Smith and Benjamin Butler, and to the hard work of the members themselves.

Sports And Other Activities Hail To Big Blue Tigers For Shaking Those Famu Rattle Snakes

Grambling Hands Tennessee State Its Third Straight Loss

EARL S. CLANTON III

NASHVILLE . . . An explosive 25-point fourth quarter doomed Tennessee State university's Big Blue eleven to their season's third straight loss.

The Grambling Tigers roared for four TD's in the last frame after trailing 0-8 throughout three quarters. Another standing room crowd—5,195—saw Tennessee State take a first period lead on freshman quarterback Charlie Powell's 12-yard rollout. Stan Randle bulled his way for the extra two-points that put the Big Blues ahead 8-0 with 2:21 remaining in the first period.

"The pass interception broke our backs in the last frame" Coach Lawrence Simmons analyzed thoughtfully. "Grambling had stopped our running game by stacking on the line. We tried to pass to loosen them up."

Using a little more speed and drive, Grambling's sophomore quarterback Ron Pennington engineered a 90 yard drive in 13 tries for Grambling's first TD. Jerry Robinson skirted end for the 2-yard dash that capped the march. J. D. (no name) Garrett kept the drive alive with three first down in 7 carries that totaled 63 yards.

Fred Collins, guard, intercepted a Frank Wynn pass on Tennessee's 24 and five plays later Robinson made another 2 yard touchdown scurry which put Grambling out front with 9:08 on the clock.

Grambling drove 66 yards for a third pay dirt drive and Pennington sneaked over from the one. Quarterback Pennington aided his own cause with the game's longest run, 45-yards, by executing a neat boot-leg.

Olympic-famed Stone Johnson set up Grambling's final TD by intercepting another Wynn-directed aerial on Tennessee's 30. Five plays later, Pennington hit Clifford McNeal in the end zone three yards away. Speedy Johnson, on the first play after the interception, caught a 27-yard pass from Pennington that moved the ball down to the 3-yard stripe.

Tennessee State now 1-2-1 for the season chalked all 11 first downs and 189 yards in the first three periods. The Louisiana lads churned up 370 yards on the ground and 116 in the air. Grambling, who picked up her second season's victory (2-1-0) did most of her yard marching in the final frame.

THE ARCHITECTURE CLUB

By JEROY CARROLL

The Architecture Club is an organization designed to serve the students of architecture as a whole. We are of the opinion that all students of a department should have some personal contact with one another, and we are striving to establish this unity.

We, the members of the Architecture Club, in keeping with the motto of the university, "Enter to learn; go forth to serve," are aiming at the highest possible level of learning. Using the future as our designed incentive, we endeavor to develop a finer appreciation for today's architecture not only for ourselves, but for all.

Using a quotation by Lady Morgan, "Architecture is the printing press of all ages," we contemplate leaving some pages of literature in annuals of architecture to be beneficial to those who follow.

The officers for the academic school year of 1962-63 are Robert Randolph, president; Joseph Ferguson, vice president; Pancheta Young, secretary; Warner Jenkin, corresponding secretary; Jeroy Carroll; reporter; David Patton, treasurer; Harold Houston, student assistant; and L. Q. Jackson and R. M. Harris Advisor.

THE MIGHTY FAMU CONTAINED BY THE TIGERS

By AL JOHNSON

The Big Blue from Tenn. State spirited with drive and fight managed to hold the No. 1 College football team in the nation to 20 points in Tallahassee, Fla. as the Rattlers of FAMU only tallied three times to beat the Tigers 20-0.

The loss was Tennessee's fifth for the 1962 football season, but the hardest fought. The Tigers, outweighed and less experience, dominated most of the statistics by outgaining the Rattlers on the ground and in the air. With the rejuvenation and fight of a bull that sees red, the Tigers marched successfully many times from deep in "snake" territory deep into their territory. But, fumbles and interceptions caused them to lose the ball many times.

Only a few of FAMU players managed to penetrate the fighting wall of Tenn. State. Olympic Sprint star, quarterback Robert Hayes outran the Tiger secondary late in the first quarter for an 18-yard trip into the end zone. A fumble by Tennessee initiated the Florida attack on the Tenn. 36 yard-line.

After a series of successful pass plays by quarterbacks Charley Powell, Franklin Wynn, and David Boone, the Tigers were placed in scoring territory, FAMU's Chuck Sutton intercepted a Tiger pass on the 28-yard line to launch the Rattler's second drive. A few plays later halfback Robert Parnore raced 41-yards for another FAMU score. Halfback Charley Ward added a two-point conversion.

Still full of fight in the second half, the Tigers' line held as Ervin Green, Roy Clay, and the whole Tiger line worked diligently and hard to contain the Rattlers. Charley Powell, William Reed, Robert Anderson, Arthur Holman and the whole secondary managed to block passes sufficiently. On offense, McNeal, Holman, Smith, McDonald, and others continued to move the ball with success.

But in the middle of the fourth quarter, the Rattlers struck again. Rattler end Alfred Denson intercepted an A & I pass on the Tennessee 45-yardline and moved to the 19-yard line. The fullback Hewitt Dixon managed to score from the one yard line on a terrific goal line stand by the fighting Tigers.

The last encounter between these two teams took place in 1956, when the Tigers won 41-39.

A&I Family would walk on the right side of the walk-ways and enter and exit from buildings through the right side of the doors.

I wish that the male students keep their soles of their shoes on the floor of the Student Union Building and not place the soles of their shoes up against the walls.

With HOME COMING approaching along with the end of the A&I Golden Jubilee, I wish the students and faculty be more hospitable to visitors, alumni, guests and friends of the University.

Central State Bombs A & I Gridders 21-6

Winless Tenn. State who is having one of modern football history, succumbed to Central State 21-6 at Wilberforce, Ohio.

It was A & I's first Mid-Western Conference game of the season and at the end of the game it was their fourth straight setback.

The Central State Marauders didn't spare the horses and jumped to a 6-0 lead at intermission when Washington Guyton tucked in a Tiger put and scampered 43 yards for the touchdown.

At the start of the second half, Willie Mitchell put a temporary spark into the Tennesseans when he gingerly lugged back the opening kickoff 90 yards for the first Tiger score.

Both teams went scoreless throughout the third quarter, but the fourth quarter spelled "cut-throats" for the Nashvillians. Early in the final period, Dean Bittner of Central, split the uprights on a 46-yard field goal, to give Central a 9 to 6 lead. That proved to be the kick that broke the Tigers' backs, because afterwards, Moses Hampton jolted over on a four-yard scoring thrust and Dave West held on to an air strike from Jim Harper to notch another TD. In all, Central State erupted for a 15-point output during the fourth quarter, while Tenn. State remained scoreless.

The win was Centrals' first one over A & I since 1951, now giving Central a 2-0 mark to lead the Mid-Western Conference.

Campus SPOTLIGHT

By EDMOND COLLIER

Campus Spotlight is a regular feature of THE METER. Various campus personalities will be placed in the spotlight to enable the student to know Who's Who on Ayini's campus.

This week the spotlight focuses its beam on William M. Rodgers, Jr., a senior majoring in mathematics from Memphis, Tennessee, sporting a 3.73 average.

William is a graduate of Douglass High School in Memphis. While in high school William was an extremely active student as editor of the yearbook, student council prexy, class salutatorium, and a member of a number of civic and school organizations.

Upon graduation he was offered scholarships to six different colleges and the Sears Roebuck Foundation Award.

William has been even more active since entering T.S.U. in September of 1959. He is eligible for membership in Alpha Kappa Mu, Beta Kappa Chi, and Kappa Delta Pi. He is in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, President of the Collegiate Division of the Middle Tennessee Region of the Tennessee Academy of Sciences, a university counselor, past president of the Mathematics Club, and has been recommended for membership in the Mathematical Association of America.

Rogers was a campaign manager for student council prexy, Joseph Mack. They waged a successful campaign that amazed everyone in that the total cost of the entire campaign amounted to only $15.00 while the other candidates were spending close to $100.00 for their campaign.

Rogers is the chairman of a committee to form and conduct a student tutoring clinic to help students who, in his words, "are interested in being helped and willing to work hard to remove their deficiencies."

Solving problems in mathematical journals occupies most of his spare time. This is an indication of his interest in and dedication to mathematics. This interest should help him with his plans to study for the Master's Degree and eventually a Ph.D. in Mathematics. After this he plans to do research, writing, and teaching "for the rest of my life."

William Rodgers, who says that "it is difficult for me to state a philosophy of life because as I learn more from day to day my philosophy changes," impresses me as a likable person with a warm personality and a great sense of humor.

IN UNITY THERE IS STRENGTH

SIR PERCY COLVIN

On Oct. 12, 1962, Fisk University met Philander Smith College on the gridiron at Tenn. State. This marked what could be a great beginning for better relationships between the two schools. But better still, this could be the beginning of better relationships between all of the institutions of higher learning in and around Nashville. Now that the world has focused its attention on Nashville because of its contribution to athletics and desegregation, it is time for Nashville to become in fact—not fiction, the real "Athens of the South."

First of all, there should be a council of representatives from each school and a publication to keep the students informed about events all over the city. This would provide closeness and an atmosphere of togetherness in and around the city.

Deeper concern would develop for each school by students from over the city. From this would stem city-wide unity in athletics liberal arts and technology. A student at Vandy and a student at Fisk could become lasting friends because of similar interest in the same field.

Athletes from all over the city would get to know one another and maybe get a chance to participate in a city-wide all star track meet, football game and basketball game. These are but a few of a large number of possibilities.

Secondly, the faculties should be closer. There shouldn't be a case of one school having an abundance of instructors in a certain field while another school creeps on slowly for the lack of aid in that department. After all, if the final aim is to have a better educated nation then every possible avenue must be examined for the solution.

KAPPA KUOTES

Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity Inc. at this time would like to congratulate the Student Body President, Joe Mack, upon his inauguration and Joyce Kilgore, who was crowned Miss Tennessee State.

Knowing that there is but one pledge line this year, we, the Kappas, wish to stress the importance of grades and averages during this quarter. We sincerely hope everyone who plans to pledge in either a sorority or a fraternity will strive to better his or her present academic standing.

During the past week the Kappas were honored highly with the presence of Lois and Dorothea Towles as their luncheon guest. Lois stated, "The Kappa's have really shown us a warm welcome, and they are perfect gentlemen." Brother Gerald Durley was selected as a participant in the fashion show that was held Friday, Oct. 19, in Kean's Little Garden.

The Kappa's this year have many plans in the very near future which will involve everyone on campus. No, it's not a dance. It's something better than that, but, all I can tell you about it now is watch those Kappa's very closely.

Education is above all an investment in the future, and unless we are willing to make that investment, the future will belong to somebody else . . . We shouldn't and mustn't think of large numbers of college students as a problem; it is a blessing. For effectively trained and properly educated, our future generations represent our greatest resource."

—from two speeches made in September 1962 by Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., president of Indiana University.

...for a life of pride and purpose

Among the young people being graduated from college in these times, there are some who think and feel—perhaps a little more deeply than the others—about the world we live in, the future we face. They ask, "How can I make my career really meaningful? More than just personally rewarding?"

And many of today's most successful young people are finding a fulfilling answer to these questions as officers on the Aerospace Team... the United States Air Force. They can tell you that no career could better combine the opportunity for achievement—and the deep inner satisfaction of knowing that they are helping preserve the very future of America.

How can you become an Air Force Officer?

If you are a college senior and not currently enrolled in ROTC, Air Force Officer Training School provides an opportunity to qualify for a wide variety of career fields. The graduate of this three-month course receives a commission as a second lieutenant. As the Air Force continues its technological advance, officers with college training will move into positions of increasing importance.

For full information—including the opportunity to earn graduate degrees at Air Force expense—see the Air Force Selection Team when it visits your college, visit your local Air Force Recruiting Office, or write: Air Force Officer Career Information, Dept. SC210, Box 805, New York 1, New York.
